Employees may also use the Hotline Service link on ConnexCare's intranet. ConnexCare will make every effort to treat all reports confidentially and to protect the anonymity of the staff who reported the information. If an individual believes that he/she has been subject to any retaliation that violates this policy, he/she may file a complaint with the Compliance Officer, the Human Resources Department, or through the Compliance Hotline for investigation.

5. Failure to Report. Failure to report misconduct may result in disciplinary action against the Staff who failed to report the misconduct. U.S. Federal False Claims Act (31 USC § 3730(h))

The Federal Civil False Claims Act (FCA) provides that any employee who is subject to retaliation or discrimination by an employer in the terms and conditions of employment because the employee lawfully sought to take action or assist in taking action under this Act shall be entitled to all relief necessary to make the employee whole. This includes reinstatement with seniority restored to what it would have been without the retaliation or discrimination, double the amount of back pay, interest on back pay, and compensation for any special damages sustained as a result of the employer's actions, including litigation costs and reasonable attorney's fees.

The Federal Civil False Claims Act ("FCA") is a set of federal statutes that, among other things, forbid "knowingly":

- Presenting or causing the presentation of, a false claim for reimbursement by a Federal health care program, including Medicare or Medicaid;
- Making, using or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim;
- Repaying less than what is owed to the government;
- Making, using or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement material to reducing or avoiding repayment to the government;

- Avoiding or decreasing an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the government and/or;
- Conspiring to defraud the federal government through one of the actions listed above.

The U.S. Attorney General may bring an action under this law. In addition, the law provides that any “whistleblower” may bring an action under this act on his or her own behalf and for the United States Government.

These actions, which must be filed in U.S. District Court, are known as “qui tam” actions. The Federal Government, after reviewing the complaint and supporting evidence, may decide either to take over the action, or decline to do so, in which case the whistleblower may conduct the action. If either the Federal Government or the whistleblower is successful, the whistleblower is entitled to receive a percentage of the recovery. If prosecuted by the Federal Government, these qui tam actions are generally handled by various U.S. Attorney’s Offices or by the U.S. Justice Department.

Penalties for violations of the FCA include fines for each false claim, payment of treble damages, and exclusion from participation in federal health care programs such as Medicare or Medicaid. Those found guilty of knowingly filing a false claim can be liable to the United States Government for a civil penalty of $5,000 - $13,500, as adjusted by the Federal Civil Penalties Inflation Adjustment Act of 1990 \(28 U.S.C. 2461\) note; [Public Law 104-410 \[1\]](#)), plus 3 times the amount of damages which the Government sustains because of the act of that person.
